

Academic Scheduling

Emily Rogers and Elena Tucker

What has been going on in the month of February?

The Academic Scheduling team has been keeping up with Spring term revisions. Even though we are still a month away from Spring quarter to start, we've been processing lots of changes.

During this month, we will start processing summer quarter spreadsheets. It is exciting to know that winter quarter is coming to an end. This quarter specifically is a transition for our office; we process spring and then jump right into summer... even though it is still winter!

Finishing the spring spreadsheets feels like a relief - it is a busy quarter, and a lot of classes are offered. With that being said, there are many updates and cancellations to courses that require meticulous attention. There are many little things you have to remember while building, updating, or cancelling a course.

Mary A. Grupe

Grupe Conference Center 1965 (Building Photographs, 1965)

Grupe Conference Center

The Grupe Conference Center, also known as the faculty center, is still used today on campus. In the late 1990s the school removed the pond that surrounded the building. Now it is just surrounded by grass and trees.

Mary Grupe was hired by Washington State Normal School in 1897 with only 200 students enrolled in the school at the time. She became the first woman to obtain her PhD at the Normal School.

In 1907, Grupe left the school to go for other opportunities in Tacoma, Minnesota, and Colorado. By 1912 she was back at the Normal School teaching and became the head of the psychology department.

In 1928, she suffered a horrible stroke that left her partially paralyzed and no longer able to teach. However, she had a home near that campus and would sit by the window, watching the students go by.

In 1961, Central Washington University named this Center in her honor. She was involved with the community of Ellensburg and was known because of her study in experimental psychology.

Central Remembered: An Anecdotal History

Louis E. Shandera
1950, 1951
Student

"None of the buildings were named in the years I was on campus. Barge Hall was the Administration ("Ad") Building. There were the Auditorium, the Library, the Classroom Building, the Music Building, the Elementary School, and the gym."

Central Remembered: An Anecdotal History \(cwu.edu\) (pg.81)

Mammoth

The Mammoth tusks are located on the Southeast side of campus, in between Black and Bouillon.

The tusks are made of steel, and it appears that they are coming from out of the ground.

It was created by the artist, Ilan Averbuch and was inspired by the discovery of mammoth bones on private property in the Wenas Creek Valley (near Selah WA).

FUNFACT

This was not the original location for the tusks. It was placed here once it was finished because the first location was no longer ideal.
