1. The Executive Board member or Active member(s) will bring forth the current constitution with the said amendments written out and clearly marked.
2. The President will move through the said changes during a general body meeting.
3. The members of the NRHH will read through each wanted change. This will be followed by a question and answer period, a discussion period, and then Active members will use the straw-poll voting method to amend said changes.
4. These steps will be followed for all changes beyond grammatical, structure, spelling, and punctuation errors.

Minor revisions pertaining to grammar, punctuation, spelling or structure may be performed by the NRHH Executive Board without bringing it to the table. Changes to content or meaning of the constitution cannot be made without bringing said changes to the table at an NRHH general body meeting, unless the changes are required for the chapter to affiliate with PACURH. If that is the case, the NRHH board can make the required changes and report them to the NRHH body at the next general body meeting. The NRHH body will have the power to reject the changes with a 50% +1 vote.
