
Topic of the Month

Tomorrow fall quarter ends and winter break begins for Central students, so December is a great time to remind them of what they can be doing to enhance their professional development with the additional free time they'll have. Here are some things mentees could be doing during the break:

- Volunteer
- Look for internships
- Create or update their LinkedIn profile
- Create a master resume- an unformatted document listing everything and anything professional and career related. Include dates, locations, summaries, supervisors, pay. This will help in completing applications and editing tailored resumes.
- Join the CWU Professional Network LinkedIn group! This is for mentees and mentors, as well as current and past students interested in sharing or receiving advice and making connections. Keep your eyes open for my invite to join the group, or add yourself, if you haven't already: CWU Professional Network LinkedIn

What Are Mentors and Mentees Doing?

Here's what Bryan and Michael planned after resuming their mentorships this fall quarter:

- Every 3rd Week of every month starting this month: Check in call with the topic being general catch up on life/goals/school.
- Every other month starting in December: In person meeting over coffee/lunch. Set topic to be discussed w/ associated article, book, or current event.
- Open door policy at all times. Michael can send me papers, resume, ideas ect...and I'll give it a first look.
- Goal of attending at least 2 alumni and/or student events together this year.

Thank you Bryan, for giving the 'ok' to share what you and your mentee are doing!
