Below is a partial list of our 2012-13 programs:

The Naked Truth on Stereotypes: This event is an innovative original theater production that uses creative writing, theater, and visual arts exercises to expose and unpack social constructions of race, class, gender, sexuality, etc. and reaches approximately 1200 people attend. Students are challenged to explore their own identities, prejudices, and privileges to help foster allyship and create a more inclusive campus climate.

Parade of Nations: This annual event is a night of celebration, culture, music, and dance featuring CWU students, faculty and staff taking to the stage to represent their cultural heritage and pride. There were approximately 600 people in attendance. Students gain a global perspective of historical and current facts about world population, languages, demographics, and geopolitics. This event fosters ethnic and cultural pride for all students.

Lunar New Year: This event celebrates the most important holiday on the Asian calendar with the university community. This program allows for an exploration and immersion of the Asian culture and environment through culinary, authentic decorations and table dressings, as well as a presentation explaining the importance of the holiday. Attendance was approximately 250 people. All students enhance their
