

Course Prefix & Number SOC 310 – Social Service Methods and Casework

LEARNER OUTCOMES	ASSESSMENT
Demonstrate knowledge of the basic fundamentals of social work practice.	Students will take written in-class exams, demonstrating recognition of and ability to discuss history, theories, and methods of social service.
Discuss and analyze in written form materials related to topics of social service.	Students will read a professional journal article and write a review and present it in class,
Demonstrate the knowledge of the basic structure of social service organizations and the role they play in the community.	Students will obtain materials and documents from a local agency and evaluate its intake process, mission statement, and services to clients and consumers demonstrating recognition of and the ability to discuss methods and theory of social service.
Develop a broad understanding of professional ethics as it is related to the practice of social casework.	Students will complete a case study of ethical standards and discuss various ethical dilemmas and make presentations in class.