

Course Prefix & Number SOC 370 – Social Change

LEARNER OUTCOMES	ASSESSMENT
Students will demonstrate knowledge of theories and dimensions of social change and how it affects peoples' daily lives.	Students will take written in class exams, demonstrating recognition of and the ability to discuss theories and dimensions of social change and will give oral presentations in class on daily life in various historical eras.
Students will demonstrate knowledge of the processes of social change, development and globalization on a world scale, placing the US in an international/global context.	Students will take written in class exams, demonstrating recognition of and the ability to discuss the process of social change and globalization and showing how the US compares with other nations.
Students will be able to discuss and analyze in written form material related to the topic of social change.	Students will read two books on social change and write critiques of the ideas presented.
Students will be able organize and present material related to the topic of social change.	Students will prepare and give oral presentations in class on daily life in various historical eras.