1. School psychology graduate students will develop knowledge of varied models and methods of assessment that yield information useful in identifying strengths and needs, in understanding problems, and in measuring progress and accomplishments. School psychology graduate students will use such models and methods as part of a systematic process to collect data and other information, translate assessment results into empirically-based decisions about service delivery, and evaluate the outcomes of services.	Goal 2. Train psychologists to function optimally in the public schools with a commitment to understanding and responsiveness to human diversity. Candidates for the master's degree and for certification must not only provide evidence that they have developed the competencies necessary to work effectively with school systems and families, but they must also demonstrate their ability to function with public school personnel, parents, and other public and privately employed professionals with whom they come in contact.	Goal 3. Promote excellence in learning to prepare students for careers and advanced study  Goal 4. Support involvement of undergraduate and graduate students in psychological research  Goal 8. Serve as a center for psychological and educational services to the community and region	Goals I & II: Maintain and strengthen an outstanding academic and student life at all sites  Goal III: Provide for outstanding graduate programs that meet focused regional needs and achieve academic excellence.  Goal V: Build partnerships with private, professional, academic, government, and community-based organizations.  Goal VI: Strengthen the college's contributions to the field of education.	Goals I & II: Maintain and strengthen an outstanding academic and student life at all sites  Goal IV: Build mutually beneficial partnerships with the public sector, industry, professional groups, institutions, and the communities surrounding our campuses.
